Sustainable Development Goals

Do you know about Sustainable Development Goals? They are 17 special goals which the world's leaders have decided on. If we all work together on these goals, we can make a better life for everyone. Let's talk about some of these goals.

The first goal is "No Poverty". Now, there are many people in the world who do not have enough money. If there isn't enough money, it is difficult to get food and keep a home. This is a problem for everyone because each country needs everyone's support to be strong. So many companies and people in developed countries have decided to help by giving money to charity, and the charities give that money to people who need it. With that money, people can start a new business and together, we can stop this problem.

The second goal is "Zero Hunger". Now, there are many countries in the world today which do not have enough food for their people. Those in the poor countries are hungry and some cannot survive. However, this is not just a problem for these poor countries, but the whole world. This is because with enough food, these countries could have the opportunity to contribute to the global economy or international businesses, sports, or technological advances. Nevertheless, just giving them food doesn't change anything. We should provide aid through education and employment to support countries' growth so that they become sustainable for themselves. We must work together so they can make their own food and take those chances in business and sports. This will make a better life for everyone.

The Sustainable Development Goals are important for everyone. There are many goals, so we all need to work together. If we can do this well, our world will be a better place.

21. According to the text, why are the Sustainable Development Goals important?

- A. They are only good for our safety.

- A. a group that is eating too much every day
- B. a group that has too much work for others
- C. a group that supports others who need it
- D. a group that takes chances from others

24. Why should countries help others with hunger?

- A. Other countries will take their money so they must help.
- B. Other countries will not believe them so they must help.
- C. Those countries have too much food so they should give it to others.
- D. Those countries will have great chances by working together.

25. What is the message of this text?

- A. We have seventeen goals about hunger and everyone knows this.
- B. We should stop poverty so that is our only goal which we need to think about.
- C. If we work together for the goals, the world will become better.
- D. There are too many goals so we should probably stop trying.
